Bentley Azure

Description

Based loosely around the chassis of the Turbo R, the two door range of Bentley Continentals were launched at the 1989 Motor Show in Geneva. Initially available as a two door tourer, and then later with a greater power output and flared arches as the 1995 Continental T, the Azure did not arrive until 1996. Styled by Pininfarini this car showed off it's open top with serious good looks. Only 1098 were ever built before production ended in 2002.

Interior

The interior is dove grey with black leather piping, grey carpets, and finest sheepskin over carpets.

Exterior

All black with a black hood, and highlighted with chrome alloy wheels, a chrome radiator shell, 'flying B', bumper inserts and exhaust.

Engine

The power unit is a 6.75 litre V8 engine with a single turbocharger producing over 400 bhp. The 0-60 time is listed at 6.1 seconds, which is phenomenally fast for such a large un-aerodynamic vehicle.
